

Kingsburgh A FIELD WITH A VIEW

“IS THIS CLIFTON BEACH OR WHAT?”

20 JULY

Since when did modelers have solid glass tables to put planes on, and glass walls for the pits – is this Clifton Beach or what?

No - it is the spectacular field at Kingsburgh, on the KZN South Coast, overlooking the lagoon at Umkomaas. It is our chief judge, Bruce Clarke's home field, where his keen club put on this aerobatics day – thank you guys. Great calm mid winter weather gave flyers every chance to do well. The flightline was at an odd angle to everything else though, which gave some pilots difficulty in getting on the right track.

In Intermediate it was good to see Malcolm again, who put in some excellent flights. His Personal Trainer, Dave, followed, with Gijs not far behind. Gijs is back to his Helios, as his Wind biplane had a minor earth confrontation recently.

In Masters there was John and I. My scores went down with each round, and John's went up, proving I am not sure what.

A pleasant social braai followed to round it all off.

Thank you judges, Bruce, Des, and Mike, plus Leon for coming along to help set up the flags and call and scribe.
